

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

NOTE BY THE CHAIRMAN OF THE RECORDS AND ANCIENT MONUMENTS COMMITTEE.

The first volume which the Records Committee of the Surrey County Council issued in January, 1928, contained abstracts of those Civil and Ecclesiastical records which remain in the parishes in the County, and a statement as to where they are to be found.

The second volume now issued deals with the Court Rolls of the Surrey Manors, and contains a most gratifying foreword written by the Master of the Rolls, Lord Hanworth.

The third volume dealing with the Surrey Municipal records is in course of preparation, and will, it is hoped, be followed by subsequent volumes dealing with other Surrey records.

The plan of these volumes of records is devised by Mr. Hilary Jenkinson, F.S.A., who has generously devoted much time to reading and revising the proofs, and whose special knowledge has proved invaluable in editing the volumes.

The Records Committee of the Surrey County Council have been fortunate in being able to employ the skilled services of Miss D. L. Powell in compiling these three volumes, which have been edited by Mr. Hilary Jenkinson, F.S.A., of the Record Office, Honorary Editor of the Surrey Records Society, in return for whose voluntary services the Records Committee of the Surrey County Council have allowed the Surrey Record Society to print off and issue among their Transactions a limited number of copies, retaining the copyright for the Surrey County Council.

The Records Committee desire to thank Mr. Jenkinson for his very valuable services.

FOREWORD.

THE word "Manor" has an attraction for Englishmen, who love the country. It calls to the imagination a compact and comfortable residence, with mullion windows, in the midst of a hamlet of clustering and picturesque cottages. It speaks of orderly administration where the rights of the lord were interwoven with the rights of the tenants over the wastes that belonged to it. It seems to suggest a system of order with interlacing rights and the sound of the partridge calling on the stubbles of the autumn.

It is not my purpose to trace the origin or describe the system of a manor. It was, perhaps, at its peak of importance in the thirteenth century. That allows some centuries during which it has survived, even if the authority of its Courts has ceased. Customs in England die hard. At Warwick the Court Leet still is held every year and sometimes a presentment is made at it.

The new Law of Property Acts have overhauled tenures, descent, and the conveyancing which have come down to us from our previous systems; and in particular the tenure by copy of the Court Roll of the Manor is to be brought to an end within a fixed limit of time, ten years from the commencement of the Law of Property Act, 1922. The Manorial documents—which include Court rolls, surveys, maps, terriers, documents and books of every description relating to the boundaries, franchises, wastes, customs or courts of a manor, whether in being on 1st January, 1926, or obsolete, but do not include the deeds or other instruments required for evidencing the title to a manor,—are thus no longer needed. When a closed register or document is laid aside, and is of no immediate use, its purpose, and the interesting material contained in it, is forgotten. It becomes lumber, and under that name is fit only for the fire of destruction.

But generation after generation has lived within the same manor and held successively their lands—in practical effect, save for the lords' right to a fine or otherwise,—with the same powers over them as their neighbouring freeholders. The Court Rolls have registered many interesting and important facts concerning the lives of those who have lived and died within the Manor, and passed on their rights to hold by copy of the Court Rolls to their children. Genealogists, economists, historians, and students of law, all find food and refreshment from the search of their contents.

The public sense of the importance of these manorial documents has been growing and deepening. The dispersal of them is contemplated with dismay. It is felt that an effort ought to be made to stem their transit to purchasers across the Atlantic. Thus, in the Law of Property Amendment Act, 1924, a section was introduced into the original Act whereby it was provided that "all manorial documents shall be under the charge and superintendence of the Master of the Rolls." "Charge and superintendence"—those words are taken from the original Act of 1838 by which the Public Record Office, as we now know it, was established. Acts of Parliament may enunciate principles and impose duties; but they must be carried into effect by flesh and blood in real life. The powers of the Master of the Rolls would fail if he could not secure the willing co-operation of many workers to the same end. Happily he has been able to do so. The governing bodies of public libraries and museums and of historical and antiquarian societies have shown zeal and ability in working for the preservation of these manorial documents. All counties are now provided with central depositories where they may be safely stored and eventually filed and catalogued.

The County of Surrey has taken a leading part in this work and set an example which is being, and will be, more largely followed. It has been made plain that manorial documents may form a nucleus to which generous donors may add other documents of county interest, and thus build up a priceless store of material from which the history of a county, of its homesteads and families, may be compiled, and from which information of personal interest to the seeker may be unravelled. The compilation of this volume marks a good step towards this end. It is one of a series, and not the least interesting of its fellows.

It is with great pleasure that I commend it, and I may add, perhaps, with some pride. I was born at Wimbledon, educated there at Eagle House, and thereafter at Charterhouse, Godalming. It is a privilege to be able to add that my native County has been one of the foremost in assisting my task as Master of the Rolls.

HANWORTH.

7th June, 1928.

INTRODUCTION.

MANORIAL RECORDS.—From the 13th century down to our own time it has been the custom all over England to record in writing the proceedings of the 'Courts' at which the 'Lords' of the various territorial units, according to the powers to which custom, prescription or the terms of a royal grant entitled them, administered justice and regulated the affairs of their lands and tenants. We may find the records of a manor, a fair, a wood, an honour, a hundred which had fallen into private hands, and so forth: but the vast proportion are manorial; and they are generally grouped conveniently, if inaccurately, under the name of Manorial Records, though Seigneurial is more correct. The form of these documents varies, of course, with the nature of the Court; and local usage had also something to do with the phrasing and arrangement: but to a remarkable extent they share not only among themselves, but also with the records of the Royal Courts of Justice certain essential characteristics—the shape of the long narrow membranes, the use of the margin for added notes, the details of internal arrangement, the phraseology employed for headings and the actual wording. Other Manorial Records are the Accounts series, running closely parallel to the Court Rolls and of very great importance, though preserved in much smaller numbers; periodical Rentals, Extents, Terriers or Surveys of the lands; large accumulations of the Deeds which recorded sales, leases and settlements; and, as time goes on, increasing quantities of supplementary Memoranda: but the Manorial Record par excellence is the Court Roll. When writing first began to be used for this purpose is at present as obscure a question as is that of the common origin from which they drew their form: the earliest known to Maitland¹ were of 1239 and 1246; and the earliest Surrey ones so far unearthed are of 1278.² Though time brought innovations—a frequent substitution of the paper book for the parchment roll, the use of English instead of Latin, and so forth—they continued with remarkably little change of outward form down to our time.

SURVIVING COLLECTIONS.—It has, of course, long been a matter of common knowledge that England was extraordinarily rich in these records and that they were of an extreme value for local history. In spite of this, surprisingly little publication¹ has taken place ; those interested have generally been hampered by lack of the most elementary knowledge as to the place of deposit and number of the rolls, even as to the name of the owner or steward of a manor ; and there has been an increasing fear that the number of these records was being rapidly reduced by ignorance or neglect. For a time this anxiety was not so acute as in the case of the Deeds, which, since the abolition of 'long title' made their preservation no longer a matter of practical utility, have been sold, scattered and destroyed at an alarming rate : but the passing of the Law of Property Act of 1922 seemed, at least to many, to threaten a similar fate for the Court Rolls, and considerable agitation followed. The result was an Amendment which came into force in 1926, by which powers were given to the Master of the Rolls to prevent the sale or destruction of these records and in certain cases to order their deposit in approved places of custody.

THE SITUATION SINCE 1926.—The Master of the Rolls accordingly appointed a Committee, established at the Public Record Office, which has been dealing ever since with the preliminaries for the safeguarding of these records, establishing relations with local bodies interested in their preservation and with the owners of manors, approving places of deposit² and—chief and most difficult task—endeavouring to locate and list existing collections. In the case of Surrey, work had already been put in hand in 1924, when the Earl of Onslow, as Vice-President of the Record Society, sent a circular letter to Lords and Stewards of Manors. On the basis of the returns thus obtained, and in co-operation with the Master of the Rolls' Committee, the Ancient Monuments and Records Committee of the County Council decided to have compilations made with a view to publication. The result is seen here: and while we find in our List melancholy evidence of the destruction which has taken place in the past,¹ and have to admit that in this as in other respects, Surrey seems to have suffered from its position near the Metropolis, it is not perhaps too much to hope that the knowledge now made public may do much to ensure the safety of these records in the future.

SCOPE AND ARRANGEMENT OF THE PRESENT WORK.—It must be emphasized that what is here attempted is only a List; and that being, so far as we know, the first of its kind to appear in print it is to some extent of an experimental nature. What we have endeavoured to provide in the case of as many as possible of the Surrey Manors (over 300) known to historians² is simply a statement of (1) the Name of the Manor; (2) that of its present Owner; (3) the Place of Deposit of its Records; (4) the Nature of the Courts,³ as normally described in the Records; and (5) identifying details—the size and date of individual Court Rolls or Books, their form and number. These will be found in the text in the order given: (1) being in ROMAN CAPITALS, followed by (2) (when known) in Roman Minuscules and (3) in Italic: these again being followed by the details of (4) and (5).

Where information as to the number of Rolls or Volumes, and their membranes, pages or folios, does not appear, the omission is generally due to the fact that the records of the Court in question were interspersed with those of others in the same ownership. Examples of this mixed recording occur frequently: and it will accordingly be found also that part of the records of one manor (A) may be listed under the name of another (B). In such cases a cross reference is made under (A), which, for further evidence, is distinguished also by an asterisk (*), (see, e.g., ABINGER).

¹ 13th century rolls appear in only eleven places. Twenty-four others have rolls beginning in the 14th century, mostly in the second half of it.

As a matter of interest, the dates of the last *Court Baron*¹ and the last *View of Frankpledge*¹ are noted in most cases : the expression 'last actual Court Baron,' which will be found frequently in the notes, signifying that this was the last occasion on which the Court, with Homagers, etc., was actually summoned ; though its work, carried on independently by the Steward to a later date, may be recorded in numerous Memoranda.

Another matter of interest which it has been thought well to include is any note which it was found possible to make during the Survey of variant forms of the place-names. Such notes must not, of course, be taken as exhaustive.

METHOD OF COMPILATION.—The Owners and Stewards of all Manors within the old administrative County of Surrey, so far as they could be traced by means of Directories, County Histories or local enquiry, have been approached, and in the great majority of cases have proved most ready to give all the help in their power and to allow an inspection of their Rolls to be made. Practically all the information in the following pages has thus been collected by the compiler from the Rolls themselves, though in a few cases the small mass of material or the full and sufficient data sent by an Owner or Steward have made a personal visit unnecessary. It must be remembered, however, that many of the Manors of which some account may be found in topographical histories have long since ceased to exist : inevitably, in such cases, it has often been impossible to get on the track of the Rolls or even to find any likely source of information. In other instances, where the Manor is still, or was till recent date, a 'live' one, no answer has been received either from the lord or the steward ; while in a very few access to the Rolls has been refused. Although, therefore, it cannot be hoped that this Schedule indicates all Rolls which have escaped destruction in the past, it is believed that all reasonably likely channels have been followed. Up to the present we have knowledge of the Records of 202 Surrey Manors : but the compiler will welcome any additional information which this publication may provoke.

Doubtless a number will be found in time in connection with Manors in other counties.

To the Rolls in private custody—which form the majority of those in our List—Surrey Rolls at the Public Record Office¹ have been added. Those in the Manuscript Department of the British Museum have been inserted so far as Subject-Index or Topographical Catalogue made this possible; and it is believed that all those in the series of 'Charters and Rolls'—perhaps the most obvious collection—have been included. The Bodleian Library, Cambridge University Library and other public libraries and collections have also been searched and have contributed a few further additions.

OTHER MANORIAL RECORDS.—We have already referred to the existence of Records other than the actual Court Rolls: and here again it was judged desirable, when private collections were being surveyed, to make all possible notes of these and to add them to our List; in which they will accordingly be found following the list of Court Rolls in each case. Neither the time nor the space available allowed of their being set out in detail, but it is hoped that a reasonably full and accurate summary has been obtained, save in the case of the Deeds: these it has been judged best to omit entirely, because they are so many in number,² and often so complicated by the reference to numerous places in a single document, that any summary statement in regard to them could only, it was felt, be misleading. Some day, perhaps, it may be possible to put together a Guide to existing Surrey Deeds; but the task will be a formidable one even if the barest detail only is included: where in the present List Manorial Records other than Court Rolls are found, it may generally be assumed that some portion, at least, of the Title Deeds has also survived. It must be understood that the inclusion of Supplementary Manorial Records, described above, extends only to the private collections examined: to include, for example, all the Rentals and Manorial Accounts in the Public Record Office³ was rendered impossible by considerations (once again) of space and time.

² The Minet Library, for example, possesses a collection of over 3,000

³ A full summary of these is given in Mr. Giuseppi's Guides, published by the Surrey Record Society (No. XXIV).

THE NAMES OF COURTS AND COURT ROLLS.—This is not the place to discuss certain still obscure questions of nomenclature, but a brief explanation¹ of the names and status of the most ordinary 'Seigneurial' Courts may be acceptable to some readers.

The Hundred Court is properly one administered by Royal Officials; the Hundred is, of course, a division of the County and its court had, within narrower limits, the same competence; that is to say that it might have some jurisdiction in the early stages of criminal procedure, but was mainly a Civil Court dealing with personal actions. In practice the Hundred had not infrequently fallen into private hands (compare the cases of GODALMING and others) and, in point of fact, no roll of a Hundred Court which was not in that position has yet been found.²

The Turn was properly a tour made twice a year by the Sheriff through his hundreds to view frank-pledge (see below) and generally hold police proceedings (compare the case of FARNHAM). Note that this word and Hundred both seem to be used sometimes very loosely (compare the cases of BURSTOW, CARSHALTON and ESHER).

View of Frank-pledge was the periodical examination into the question whether all persons who ought to be were within a tithing which would be responsible for them. Each 'tithing' was represented by its 'tithingman' and the Court was in practice one with general police functions. The right of holding this Court, which came to be known not infrequently as a *Leet*³ (originally a very local use) or as Curia Legalis or Law Day, was a definite privilege, a regality—not a necessary accompaniment of lordship over land: as such it may be associated with other privileges, such as that of holding the Assize of Ale. It is seldom recorded in our Surrey rolls after 1850.

The Ordinary Court, held by anyone who was a lord over lands and tenants, had normally, so far at least as free tenants were concerned, only a non-penal, civil jurisdiction. It came to be known quite early as a Court Baron, but it seems to have been only the later legalists who distinguished this, as the Court of Freeholders, from the Court Customary.

Halmote (compare the case of CUDDINGTON) is a very ancient word: it appears to be an ordinary Lord's Court, but dealing with bondsmen, nativi, who hold their lands in bondagio. Swainmote or Swanimote which appears once in our List (see BAGSHOT) is the Court of a Forest.

Two points should be kept particularly in mind. First, that the statements of the old printed authorities¹ (dating from the 16th and 17th centuries) must not be too rigidly applied to the Seigniorial Courts in earlier periods. Second, that the distinction of scope in the work of these is one of jurisdiction rather than Court. We have seen that the recording clerk may or may not keep distinct by the use of separate headings or rolls the Courts of several Manors under one ownership. Similarly, he may, or may not, distinguish the jurisdiction of his Lord as a mere land-owner and the same Lord's exercise of special privileges, such as view of frank-pledge or the holding of a Hundred Court and Turn: and his successor, or even he himself, may after a while entirely alter his method of record-keeping. So that it is sometimes not easy without minute investigation (sometimes even impossible, if only a small amount of record has survived) to say how far the jurisdiction of a particular Lord extended. And this confusion continues in quite late times (compare the case of HARDWICK).

Borough Courts, always the result of privilege, are sui generis: but here again there is a frequent tendency to mingle separate jurisdictions in a single Court: so that their special records may be found mixed with ordinary seigniorial ones (compare the case of GUILDFORD).

Under all these circumstances, the practice of the present List has been to give the title of a Court as apparently recognized in the later records, adding variants in notes.

The task of producing a List was entrusted by the Committee of the County Council to Miss D. L. Powell, and she has done the whole work of compilation and indexing: she desires to thank all those (they are too numerous for individual mention) who have helped her in the work. Mr. Hilary Jenkinson, as General Editor of the Surrey Record Society, is responsible for the scheme and arrangement and for occasional suggestions, and he has put together the foregoing Introduction.

¹ 'Curia de Dorkyng tenta ibidem.'² 'Dorkyng. Curia,' or 'Dorkyng. Visus franci plegii.' From the 14th-17th centuries, tithing-men present for the Foreign Borough, East Borough, Chipping Borough and 'Wald,' or 'Waldborough': this last is replaced subsequently by 'Homewood Borough.' In the 16th century Views tithing-men also appear for Capel.³ In a Roll of 5-7 Ric. II., the heading usually given is: 'Dorkyngge. Hundredum tentum ibidem,' followed by the Court. Some of the later Rolls are apparently duplicates.⁴ Rolls from 1773 to date are understood to be with the Steward, Mr. G. E. Campbell, of Messrs. Holmes and Beldam, Littlehampton.⁵ The Muniment Room of the Duke of Norfolk at St. James' Square contains about 80 bundles of Surrey documents and papers. The Court Rolls detailed above and under Shelwood and Carshalton are contained in about 10 of these bundles. The remainder include such documents as Letters Patent, Inquisitions post mortem, Accounts, Title Deeds, Leases and so forth. A proportion certainly go back to the reign of Hen. III. and possibly some of the undated ones may be earlier. Among the miscellaneous records of this Dorking collection are some relating to other Surrey Manors, notably: Accounts of the Reeves of East Betchworth and Reigate, both dated 27-28 Edw. I., a Rental of Reigate, 26 Hen. VI., and a Rental of Brockham, 5 Geo. II.⁶ The Accounts are those of the Bailiffs or Reeves of Dorking.⁷ The Rentals are for 'Dorkyngge' and 'Capell,' under separate heads, or for the 'Manerium de Dorking cum Capell.'

² This Volume has records of Courts Baron for the Manors of Artington, Cattishull and Compton also for the period shown.

^{2a} Many places in the neighbourhood (Cattishull, Artington, Compton, Enyton, Hambledon and Haslemere) are referred to in these Rolls apparently, but, as noted under Artington, no personal inspection of the Losely MSS. was made by the compiler. It is not apparent whether actual manor courts of these places are also recorded on the Godalming Rolls, save in a few cases.

⁵ In 5 Car. I. a View was also held for 'Godalmyng Enyton' and this appears frequently in subsequent Rolls. In the late 17th century, while Views for Godalmyng were held in April and October, those for Godalmyng Enyton were held once a year only, usually in October.

⁷ These two Courts were those of the Bishop of Salisbury for his Manor of Godalmyng.

⁸ This Roll of 6 m. has records of 27 Courts for Godalming Hundred, but each has records of a few pleas only. The Roll has also records of three Views for Godalming, and one for 'Godalmyng. Visus personatus' (in 1 Edw. V.); also separate Views in 1 and 2 Ric. III. for Hambledon (with tithing of the parsonage), Catteshull, Compton (with tithings of Eastbury and Westbury), Artington (with tithing of Downe Place), Loseley (with tithing of Imbhams), and Enyton.

GUILDFORD (Guldeforde).

The Corporation of Guildford.

Corporation Muniments.

6 Hen. VIII.—2 & 3 Phil. and Mary: 16–19 Eliz., 12–17 Car. I.:
24 Car. II.—1835. See note.

¹ The series (a) are on Rolls with records of Richmond also. The heading is for 'Hamme. Curia tenta ibidem.' No record of a seigniorial View for Ham appears until 27 Hen. VIII. After that date the Views recorded are those of the Manors of Richmond and Hamme together. The series (b) gives records of Courts Baron only, for manor alone. After that the Records are for the 'Leet of Hardwick,' except from 1732 to 1744, when the heading is for the 'Manor of Hardwick.' In each case, entries are made under the headings of Chertsey, Egham, Thorpe, and Chobham with Frimley. In Chertsey, tithing-men appear for the Town, Addlestone, Lyne, Lolworth, and Ham ; in Egham, tithing-men appear for the Town, the Green, the Hithe, and Stroud ; in Chobham, for Stanners Dozen, Pentecost Dozen, and Forest Dozen ; and in Thorpe and Frimley, for those places only. (b) Horley Enclosure Award, 1818.¹ On fol. 5 of the Volume is a record of a Court, with View, for Horley, for 11 Ric. II., but obviously it is not the original. The last View recorded is in 1713, the last actual Court Baron, in 1896. During the period 9 Eliz.-1700, there is record of 54 Views and Courts.² This correspondence includes notes on and reports of the Views and Courts made by the Clerks to the Hospital who were sent down from London. They amount to a kind of Survey of the lands and tenants of the Manor. One paper gives a Survey or View of 'the Manor House, Court Lodge,' in 1691.

² In the period 1310-1489 the main gaps are 1362-1420, 1462-84 (inclusive). There are 23 Rolls for the period 1278-1691, including two Rolls of Extracts from 16th century Rolls.

² There are 79 Court Rolls for Malden up to and including 1702. Those for the 13th century are as shown above. From 1307–1509 Courts are fairly continuous except for the following gaps : 1359–80, 1390–1439, 1457–65 (all inclusive). Courts for Farley appear on the Malden Rolls for 1472, 1486, 1488, 1490–1502 and 1509 ; and for Thorncroft, for 1486, 1488, 1493–1502, 1509. The heading 'cum Chessington' does not appear until the time of Car. II.

² Courts Baron were held for Merstham until about 1899. The later records of these are with Lord Hylton's solicitors.

² 'Molesey. Curia domini Roberti de Wyndesore Prioris de Marton tenta apud Molesey,' followed by the 'Visus.' The early Courts shown at (b) are copies from the originals, made apparently in the 18th century, as the first of the 4 volumes in which they occur has the following headnote: 'Antiquiori manerii de Moulsey Prior in Comitatu Surreie. Rotuli vetustate oblitterati impensis Jacobi Clarke armigeri Domini predicti Restituti. Anno Salutis 1703. Thomas Nuthall D. Interiori Templo London amanuensis.'

The hand appears to be that of the first Volume of East Molesey Rolls. The dates of the last View and Court Baron are as in that Manor.

² These extracts are in a paper book, bound in parchment, entitled (in a later hand than the contents), 'Ancient Record Book of the Manor of Morden.' The contents also include numerous Extents of the Manors of Morden and 'Ravesbury,' transcripts of Charters, Rentals and Customaries, lists of tenants, the Charges for the jury of a Court Leet and Court Baron, and notes of various Deeds concerning tithes. From internal evidence it would appear to have been the work of Richard Garth, the lord of the Manor in the later 16th century. It forms an interesting record of over 200 pp.

Entries for Ockham occur on the East Horsley Rolls, as there shown. As regards actual Rolls for Ockham, it may be noted that there is at Marden Park, among Sir Bernard Greenwell's records, a copy of a late 18th century book of notes on various Surrey Manors compiled by Mr. William Bryant. In a letter of 1798 there given, addressed to a Mr. King, he reports having tried to trace the Rolls for Ockham and states that 'the Court Rolls for Ockham are not very correct or easily to be collected because there has not been any occasion for many years to hold Courts, all the copyholds having long been united to the Manor.'

¹ 'Curia de Puryford.' The first record of a 'Visus' appears to be that of 22 Edw. III. Records of Courts occur in 23 years between 8 Edw. III. and 8 Hen. VI.

² Some of these thirty-one volumes are in duplicate, and in some the order of the entries is very haphazard; they were perhaps draft minutes only.

³ Miscellaneous documents and correspondence relating to the manor, to the number of some hundreds, are with the Courtbooks.

² The first Court 'Shene. Curia tenta ibidem'; the next, 'Shene. Visus cum curia ibidem tentus.' The records for 1 Hen. VII.-27 Hen. VIII. appear to be for Courts Baron only. In the earlier part of the 17th century one View was held for the three Manors of Richmond, Ham and Petersham, but after 1637 Petersham does not appear. Later, Ham and Richmond appear under the one heading, as one Manor. In 16 Hen. VII. is, apparently, the first heading for: 'Rychemount,' nuper dict' Shene.' There is a Roll of 17th century Estreats in the Series (a). There are also some records of Courts, 1690-1700, and Indexes of Court Rolls 1405-1654 and 1655-1722 in the Bodleian Library (MSS. Gough, Surrey, 1-4).

² These Courts are sometimes noted as held at Mortlake or Hampton. In the Hen. VIII. Rolls, Putney, Hampton (Roehampton) and Mortlake have each their own Court Baron, while Mortlake has also its own View. Later, they appear only as part of the Manor of 'Wimbeldon cum membris.' Hampton appears as 'Rowhampton' temp. Edw. VI.

The Roll has 5 membranes on which 31 Charters are enrolled; the first eight have no date, the remainder are dated Edw. III. and Ric. II. It would appear to have been written about the end of the 14th century.
